

Roman Blinds Guide

Max Buston Design

Roman Blind Projects

We make hand-made Roman blinds for most of our projects. They are particularly useful for smaller windows, or for providing shade, privacy, blackout or additional interest to a scheme.

A blackout linen blind in a dressing area

A blackout blind with a window seat below in the City of London

Oriental officials fabric with brick red border

An embroidered sheer Roman blind with black grosgrain ribbon border

A silk roman blind at the end of a colourful and moody bedroom in the City of London. The silk fabric with its two lustrous embroidered stripes has such strength on its own there is no need for a trim or border for this blind.

How To Measure For Blinds

- 1) Measure the height of window cm
- 2) Measure width of window cm
- 3) Measure from the top of window to bottom of cornice (optional) cm

This is for the quotation. A Professional measure happens before production, and we will also guide you through the fitting options.
